For over ninety years the Cambridge Chronicle has been the leading newspaper of the city and an outstanding member of the suburban newspaper field.

Combined in 1935 with the Cambridge Sun, it now offers to readers and advertisers a medium which reaches every Thursday 22,000 homes, offices and stores in this city.

No other local newspaper carries regularly the advertising of the leading stores of Cambridge. They use the Chronicle-Sun because experience has taught them that IT PAYS.

The University City, the Home City, Industrial and Transportation Center, Merchandising and Financial Center

Compiled by H. A. Manning Company, with the Assistance of the Cambridge Industrial Association

The publishers of this Directory consider it advisable and desirable to set forth the following paragraphs, in as simple and attractive a manner as possible, to enable the readers of these descriptive pages to comprehend as many of the outstanding features of Cambridge as limited space permits. The local resident, the visitor, and the distant reader about Cambridge wishes to gain an impression of Cambridge as well as to have at hand a statistical reference regarding the city and its people. It is the publisher's aim to portray as much of Cambridge's charm and greatness as is consistent with facts. We believe with John Cotton Dana, the great librarian, that "Good citizenship springs from a knowledge about one's own community." ings of the City Map and the City Directory about localities, districts, street locations, street changes, growth of sections, and general city changes are of great importance to property owners, old residents, new residents, and school students. Racial characteristics of names in the Directory enable the consultant to gain a very comprehensive knowledge of the inhabitants of the city and many other educational facts. Notable men all through history have contributed their philosophy as to the value of knowledge about the "home town." Here is one from Abraham Lincoln: "I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live so that his place will be proud of him." In studying the following, remember that the Cambridge City Directory disseminates this information far and wide where this Directory represents Cambridge in the Free Directory Library Exchange System of North America. The Cambridge City Directory, with over 1,000 closely printed pages, is the City of Cambridge in book form; its family and social life, business and industrial life is portrayed in great detail. The publishers invite and accept constructive criticism and suggestions for the improvement of the Directory for the benefit of Cambridge and all interested.

LOCATION—Cambridge is known world-wide as "The University City." It is, however, much more than an educational city. It has 500 industries and is a great warehousing center for merchandise. It is one of the leading transportation centers of this section of the country. Cambridge is very near to the center of the Metropolitan District of Massachusetts and is bound on the South by the Charles River and Brighton Section of Boston; the West by Watertown and Belmont; on the North and East by Arlington, Somerville and Charlestown. distance is 4 miles from the center of the Boston business district to the Central Square district of Cambridge. Distances to important points in Eastern United States are as follows: Portland 104 miles, Concord 72, Hartford 110, Providence 42, Worcester 40, New Bedford 65, Lowell 32, Bangor 246, Springfield 93, Greenfield 98, Burlington 277, Albany 179, Schenectady 194, New York 220, Philadelphia 310, Atlantic City 356, Washington 451, 1867, William March 1867, Washington 451, 1867, Buffalo 467, White Mountains 160, Elmira 368, Cape Cod 70,

Bar Harbor 271, Montreal 320, Chicago 1025, Boston Harbor 5.

POPULATION—The growth of Cambridge in population has been gradual until in 1930 it reached 113,643 with an increase of 3,949 in the preceding decade or a percentage increase The present population of Cambridge is estimated as 118,075. Indications are that the city will have one of its rapid periods of growth within a short time. The greatest percentage of growth was the decade between 1840 and 1850 or 80.9. The next is between 1860 and 1870 with 71.3%. Not since 1900 has there been a percentage growth of 25%. Growth shown as follows since 1790 when it was 2,115; 1800, 2,453; 1810, 2,523; 1820, 3,295; 1830, 6,072; 1840, 8,409; 1850, 15,215; 1860, 26,060; 1870, 39,634; 1880, 52,669; 1890, 70,028; 1900, 91,886; 1910, 104,839; 1920, 109,694. The total colored population at present is 5,419. The total number of males in 1930 were 54,031; females, 59,630. American born population 78%. Predominating nationalities of foreign born residents are English, Scotch, Irish, İtalian, Portugese, Polish, French Canadian descent. The total white population 108,046; native 75,716; foreign born, 32,330. Number of families, 27,448. Dwellings, 15,014. Population per family, 4.05. Population per dwelling, 7.41. Population within 25 miles, 3,000,000; 45 miles 4,300,000.

TOPOGRAPHY—Much of Cambridge lies North of the Charles River Basin which it borders for 4 miles. This Basin has been greatly improved and beautified with parkways along its shores adding distinction and charm to the city. The city occupies 6.535 square miles and is 434 miles East and West and 2 1/5 miles North and South. The maximum altitude above sea level is 77 feet. There is scarcely a foot of land in Cambridge that cannot be developed for city use. There are many fine residence streets with beautiful homes and apartment buildings and, in Cambridge, homes can be found to fit all pocketbooks. There are many fine streets traversing the city and many great arteries of travel pass through Cambridge.

HISTORICAL—Cambridge was settled in 1630. It was incorporated a city in 1846, original shire town of Middlesex County, and houses the County Offices of Administration. There is much of interest to the lover of history in Cambridge, which calls to mind some verse by Oliver Wendell Holmes:

"Know Old Cambridge? Hope you do. Born there? Don't say so! I was too. The nicest place that ever was seen, Colleges red and Common green, Sidewalks brownish with trees between."

It might prove worth while to translate this into Modern Cambridge logic, thus: "Know NEW Cambridge" Hope you do.

In business there? I am too!

The busiest place you ever have known! Industry, business, and commerce have grown,

Modern Cambridge, we're proud of you.

In between the periods that represent the above verses is an intensely interesting transition of a good old New England town, with its college atmosphere built around Harvard University of 300 years ago, to a modern great city with its 41 private educational institutions, over 500 industries and 1500 merchandising outlets. It can properly be said that the history of Cambridge should begin at the Old Burying Ground at Harvard Square. Visualizing from this point the small beginnings of this city is easy if one has the time. There are many historical markers in Cambridge of which we can only mention a few for lack of space:-

Fort Washington, foot of Allston Street near Charles River.

Site of Fort No. 1 where Riverside Press now stands on Blackstone Street.

3. Site of Fort No. 2 on left hand side of Putnam Avenue below Franklin Street, built 1775 by order of George Washington.

- 4. Site of Inman House, Inman Street near City Hall. General Putnam had head-quarters in 1775 in house which stood here.

  5. Apthorpe House, Bishop Place, between Plympton and Linden Streets, built in 1760. General Burgoyne and staff officers confined here as prisoners of war in 1777.
  - Site of first school house in Cambridge, Holyoke St, first school house built in 1648. Site of Governor Dudley House, Northwest corner Dunster and South Streets. The - founder of Cambridge and Governor of Massachusetts lived here in 1630.

  8. John Hicks House, Southeast cor Dunster and Winthrop St, built 1762. Hicks was killed by British soldiers Apr 9, 1775 and the house was used as Army office by General Putnam. 9. Site of first meeting house in Cambridge, Southwest corner Dunster and Mt. Auburn Streets. Erected 1632.

Site of Spreading Chestnut Tree, Brattle near Story Street where village smithy stood, made famous in Longfellow's poem.

11. Washington Elm, Garden corner Mason Street. Washington took command

American Army under this tree July 3, 1775.

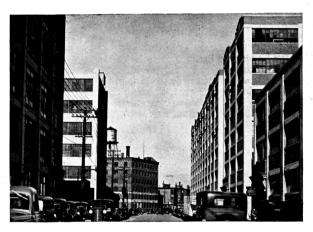

12. Cambridge Common where centers much of the early history of this section. Cannon marker for guns used by Continental Army in siege of Boston during American Revolution. There are hundreds of other markers and historic spots most of which are recorded by the Cambridge Historical Society.

As Cambridge took a leading place in the making of history in the early days of America it is so doing today at an accelerated pace. In the summer and fall of 1936 Harvard University held its Tercentenary Celebration, entertaining visitors from all over the world. Visitors to Cambridge of a quarter century ago would hardly recognize it today because of its modernization in streets, boulevards, parks, buildings and mode of transportation. In some ways it stands first among New England's cities and combining all its advantages it can be said to rank among the leading cities of this section of the country.

INDUSTRIAL—Industry has not superseded education in Cambridge. It is still a University City to a greater extent than ever before. as the most prominent characteristic of the city. Industry has, however, replaced education Industry is not new to Cambridge. The only thing new is its tremendous growth, and its position among New England cities as the third in industry. Industry in Cambridge is almost as old as education. Here the first printing press in the colonies operated, the birth of the great publishing industry of America was here; the first center aisle passenger coach was produced here. Great glassware factories employed 500 as early as 1850. Modern transportation and the reclamation of 2 square miles of tide-covered lowlands in the city are two factors that have had much to do with the growth of industrial Cambridge. The transition to an industrial city began in the 1870's when the reclaiming of the lowlands began. Today, there are over 500 establishments employing 15,418, with annual wages paid of $15,530,141, with products annually of $111,147,538 for 1934.

This is an impressive list. The reclaimed land from the lowlands of the city of 40 years ago still offers opportunities for further industrial expansion. Cambridge can double its present industrial output and bids fair to do so in the next score of years. Cambridge has everything to work with in labor market, transportation, and facilities. There is a customer market of 30,000,000 within 500 miles to consume the products made in Cambridge. For further information write the publishers of this Directory, or the Cambridge Industrial commission.

The Churches

There are seventy two churches in Cambridge and these noble edifices, placed at intervals about the city, add much to its attractiveness and charm.

The church of today is the greatest of all institutions for the planting of good thoughts in the minds of the people and stands as the bulwark against the degrading influences that surround us.

For newcomers, the Church is a factor that makes for the ready assimilation into the religious and social life of the community and hastens the time required to make citizens of the strangers who come among us.

Therefore, let us give a thought to these institutions that form so great a part of our city life and, in visualizing our future greatness, let us remember their value as

Morgan Memorial

89 Shawmut Avenue

BOSTON, MASS.

In the Midst of Those It Serves

Morgan Memorial for more than forty years has been in the business of lifting burdens from those underprivileged people who seek its aid. Its plan is rehabilitation—saving the waste in men and things. The working out of this practical philosophy is done through the Goodwill Bag into which several hundred thousand house-wives in Greater Boston put their discarded clothing and household goods. These materials are picked up and brought into the Goodwill workshops where under-privileged people put them into saleable and usable form for other people who cannot afford to pay for new goods. By so doing these workers' "self-respect" is maintained by paying them "self respecting" wages for "self respecting" work. If you do not have a Goodwill Bag, call Hancock 9670 and one will be sent to you at no cost. We will be pleased to pick it up whenever you have it filled.

GOODWILL WORKSHOPS give work to 400 unemployed every day. GOODWILL HOUSE shelters 40 transient boys each night. SEAVEY SETTLEMENT cares for 50 homeless men nightly.

ELIZA HENRY HOME, maintained for middle-aged working women and married students who are working their way through school.

LUCY STONE HOME in Dorchester, used in summer for daily outings for mothers and children, and in winter for young people's work. CHILDREN'S SETTLEMENT where 2,000 children of 26 nationalities are given educational opportunities.

FRESH AIR FARM at South Athol, maintained for underprivileged children and adults during July and August.

Industrial Cambridge

Industry in Cambridge is almost as old as education. Here the first printing press in the Colonies started, and the birth of the great publishing industry was here. The first center aisle passenger coach was produced here. Great glass-ware factories employed 500 as early as 1850.

RAILROADS SERVE INDUSTRY IN CAMBRIDGE

As an industrial center Cambridge is in the pioneer class. At the very beginning of the settlement of the Colonies industry settled along the Charle. River to take advantage of water transportation facilities. Here the first printing press in the Colonies started, and the birth of the great publishing industry was here. The first center aisle passenger coach was produced here. Great glass-ware factories employed 500 as early as 1850.

As Cambridge took a leading place in the making of history in the early days of America it is so doing today at an accelerated pace, and today its industrial greatness is not to be denied. Cambridge ranks third in industry among the cities of New England.

The rapid advance of Cambridge industrially came with improvement in transportation, and the reclamation of two square miles of tide covered low lands in the city. These two factors have had much to do with the growth of Industrial Cambridge. The transition to an Industrial City began in 1870, when the reclaiming of the low lands began. There are now nearly 500 manufacturing concerns employing 15,500 workers, and having as annual wage disbursement of nearly $16,000,000. The products amount to $112,000,000 per annum. Cambridge stands first in the country as a confectionery center, and very prominent in the manufacture of soap, bread, and other bakery products, printing and publishing, rubber goods, rubber boots and shoes, electrical machinery apparatus and supplies, fcundry and machine shop products, furniture, dictionaries, transformers and radio apparatus, oil burners, and over 500 other products which are too numerous to be mentioned in this limited space. For further details on products see page 7.

Cambridge offers great advantages to industrialists. It has everything to work with in labor market, transportation and facilities. There is a customer market of 30 million within 500 miles. Water transportation will deliver Cambridge-made products to Pacific coast and Mississippi river points at a lower rate than land transportation of 500 miles.

For further information about Industrial Cambridge write the Cambridge Industrial Association, or the Publishers of this Directory.

THE STORY OF CAMBRIDGE

TODAY, in all parts of the country thoughtful executives are studying the problem of plant location. They realize that in the keen competition for modern markets a strategic location is more important than ever. Such a strategic location is offered to certain types of industry by the City of Cambridge, whose unique advantages for industrial growth have already made it the second city in Massachusetts in the value of its manufactured products, and the third in all New England. For three centuries the world has known Cambridge as an educational center; as the home of Harvard, the first college founded in the North American wilderness, and later the home of Radcliffe and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Of these institutions and their leadership in the field of learning Cambridge has always been proud.

But now increasingly, the world begins to know Cambridge as an outstanding industrial center, whose products are in demand wherever good merchandise is sold. And in this, too, Cambridge takes a natural pride. It was in Cambridge that George Washington took command of the Revolutionary Army. In Cambridge the poets Lowell and Longfellow lived and wrote. And from Cambridge over the long span of the centuries have gone forth scholars, statesmen, scientists, writers, historians and administrators to play a leading part in establishing the American system of government and the American way of life we value so highly today. The roots of Cambridge are intertwined with those of the nation.

But Cambridge a city with this great historic past, is also a city with a great industrial present — and a greater industrial future. Within the Cambridge city limits nearly four hundred industrial establishments produce an annual product whose value in some years rises as high as $185,000,000. Here many tirms manufacturing nationally advertised products have long been located, and here many others have come in recent years. One area of two square miles in Cambridge contains over two hundred industrial buildings. Cambridge's claim to industrial greatness rests on a long-established record of actual accomplishment.

To the manufacturer who seeks a location where business will develop and prosper, Industrial Cambridge has much to offer good factory sites at reasonable prices easy access to profitable markets, unexcelled transportation facilities, a large supply of skilled and conservative labor, diversification of industry, a plentiful water supply, low power and light rates ample banking facilities, and a spirit of community co-operation that goes the whole way. It is no wonder that an increasing number of leading manufacturers are finding Industrial Cambridge an ideal city in which to locate, grow, and build for the future.

- Backing this experience is a well planned plant, equipped for composition, presswork and binding, providing for complete production under our own control.
- Our range of work covers everything in printing that you may need—from a bound volume to a business card.
- A co-operative spirit pervades all our organization. You will find our service advantageous.
